

Welcome SHEEP Visitors!

Our sheep are professional crowd pleasers but here's how you can make your visit enjoyable for our sheep too!

The Shepherd is the boss! Sheep dogs and sheep visitors alike must listen to instructions to keep everyone safe and happy.

Quick movements or shouting make the sheep run away. Stay calm and approach gently.

If Boss Shepherd says "okay", go ahead and pet the dogs. No throwing sticks, balls or rocks as the dogs are on duty. Don't worry, they get play time after work!

When feeding some leaves, be sure that our trees, are not broken, please! (See what we did there?)

The sheep appreciate bite-sized pieces of apple or carrot. Yum, yum! If they are resting under a tree, hold out a snack. If they are interested they will come to you.

If you brought your dog to see the sheep, keep your pet on a leash! The last thing the sheep want is another bossy dog chasing them around. Also, Boss Shepherd will be most unhappy.

Sheep do not watch where they are walking. Protect your toes - wear closed shoes. Protect small children - they can easily be knocked over or stepped on. Stay very close to your little ones at all times.
